POLO GROUNDS, NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—As 50,000 made high carnival in the stands, the New York Giants and the Washington Senators were to meet in the first game of the 1933 world series this afternoon, prepared to repeat their melodrama of nine years ago. At that time, the series went the limit of seven games with the Senators winning so sensationally as to send their populace out gibbering into the night and thence down Pennsylvania avenue in staid, old Washington to make baseball history.

Today, almost the same situation
impended, with two fighting, rollicking ball clubs ready to do or die in a figurative death in the attempt.

PA NEWS OBSERVES

The News received the most curious of the season's crop of curiosities this morning. The latest inanimate member of the local hall of fame is a limb from a pear tree. A rather ordinary looking limb, just two or three feet long. But on it is a family of 17 husky pears. The pears are Duchess variety—and sure are aristocratic in appearance but very bourgeois in number. Grown on the farm of J. M. Houk, R. D. 6, Princeton road.

In spite of the fact that green inspection stickers adorned the windshields, Pa News saw three or four automobiles near Mercer last night with lone headlights.

A few white lines and a couple "curve" warning signs would assist night drivers in traveling over the Highland Heights to New Wilmington road.

LONDON, Oct. 3.—Besieged by a swarm of photographers pleading for "that Roosevelt smile," James Roosevelt, son of the American president, today smilingly refused to deny or confirm reports he would travel to Russia on a mission for his father.

Accompanied by his wife and friends, young Roosevelt arrived last night and immediately sought refuge in a fashionable west end hotel. His arrival was marked by reports he would journey to Russia to obtain information in connection with possible American recognition of the Soviet government.

"Russia is not on my itinerary at present," he said. "I don't know whether I am going and haven't really thought about it. This is purely a vacation trip. Of course,
I shall keep my eyes wide open."
He said that after a week in London he would go to Paris and Geneva and Rome "to forget about work."

"I promised not to comment on American politics," he declared, "I leave that to my father. I am glad to see such tremendous interest here in the American recovery program.
"People must not become impatient. A crisis which was getting worse and worse for four years cannot be banished in six months. Nobody can expect that. It will take time—probably two years."

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 3.—Mobilization of striking miners into close-knit picket lines, in the face of NRA appeals for industrial peace, today signaled a continuance of widespread strikes which have paralyzed the bituminous coal industry and have spread to steel mills of the West Virginia panhandle and the Pittsburgh district.

In a truculent mood, miners in the picket lines indicated they were disposed to heed neither commands of the government nor the pleas of their own union officers to "support the president and get back on the job."

Strikes at the Weirton Steel Company in West Virginia and the Clairton by-products plant of the Carnegie Steel Company also continued, with steel and mine workers picketing the latter plants.

Picket lines also were established at the Central Tube Company, which closed to avert labor trouble, and at the National Electric Products Company where 3,000 employees voted to strike. Both plants are located at Ambridge.

Pinchot Urges Miners To Go Back To Work

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Oct. 3.—Striking coal miners who have crippled soft coal production in western Pennsylvania for several weeks, were urged to return to work by Gov. Gifford Pinchot today.

"I have just talked with General Johnson on the telephone," Governor Pinchot said. "He gave me his personal assurance that the Frick company interests will bargain collectively with the representatives elected by the miners without any interference in the election by their employers."

"Since these things are true, there is no reason why the miners should not go back to work. I ask them to do so."

The governor's request followed similar appeals from federal authorities, including Johnson, who urged workers to return to the pits after the Frick Coal & Coke company signed an agreement to comply with provisions of the coal code in respect to wages and hours of work.

TWO MAJOR BATTLES IN LABOR CONVENTION

Conflict Over Unions' Status

Committees Ponder "Horizontal" And "Vertical" Union Organization

CONVENTION MEETS IN WASHINGTON, D. C.

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Two major battles were being fought behind closed doors of committees today as the delegates to the American Federation of Labor convention rolled up their sleeves and went to work. The first conflict was being waged over the question of "horizontal" unions versus "vertical" unions, or organization of unions along craft lines against organization by industries.

Certain delegations, including the metals trades, charge that the huge new memberships being gathered into the A. F. of L. are being organized mostly by industries. President William Green was said to have changed his colors since the NRA in favor of vertical unions. However, Green has not yet officially announced his stand on the matter.

Resolutions brewing were expected to bring the controversy to the floor of the convention.

The second battle being fought in committee deals with the proposal to expand the membership of the executive council from eleven to 25 representatives.

At the last convention, John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, introduced such a resolution but it was voted down on the floor.

Expansionists claim a larger council would produce a more liberal representation of the unions and prevent possible steam roller tactics by the federation's administration.

during the fighting, left inhabitants of the city fearful of renewed rioting. Investigation of every conceivable source of information, including the hospitals, emergency stations, morgues and army headquarters at Camp Columbia led to belief that estimates of 100 killed and 200 wounded were reasonably accurate.

Indications were that the United States embassy would take no action regarding the killing of two others. As far as could be learned, Ambassador Sumner Welles after an investigation, decided the incidents were accidental and thus not subject to diplomatic action.

MINE STRIKERS FAIL TO HEED NRA APPEALS

morning when the strike of 1,800 longshoremen became effective. The strike was declared in sympathy with the miners' walkout.

A call for a mass meeting of 30,000 men to decide whether the H. C. Frick Coke Company, captive-mine operator and subsidiary of U. S. Steel, had recognized the union was issued this morning. The meeting was to be held late today at Seagrigh, near Uniontown.

Union recognition for captive-mine employees has been the crux of the coal strike which saw 85,000 mine workers drop their tools to force recognition in the captive-mine area.

The men were demanding definite assurance on just what the Frick company had signed. Late yesterday, a letter signed by Tom Moses, Frick president, was laid before insurgent leaders by Phillip Murray, international vice-president of the United Mine Workers of America.

The letter offered the men every privilege granted union miners working under contract, but it did not formally recognize the union. Murray told the men that since the letter was addressed to him in his official capacity, both he and Gen. Hugh Johnson, NRA administrator, construed it as "virtual recognition."

Some Resume Work Although the great majority of soft-coal mines were locked tightly in the strike's grip today, there were many defections which reduced the total number now on strike to about 70,000. In Somerset county, 3500 strikers resumed work while approximately 10,000 men entered the Cambria county shafts. Operations in several other scattered fields also were resumed.

Several reports of violence were reported this morning. Only the presence of company guards, armed with pump guns, averted an open clash at Clairton when strikers attempted to pursue an auto carrying steel mill employees which sped through a picket line, knocking down an American flag planted by pickets at the mill entrance.

At Weirton, strikers frustrated what they claimed was an attempt to smuggle strikebreakers into the Weirton Steel plant when they halted a truck covered with tarpaulin under which 12 men were concealed. A motorcade of strikers conveyed the truck five to the Pennsylvania West Virginia state line where the occupants were told to "beat it back where you came from."

CRONIN SELECTS WALTER STEWART FOR FIRST GAME

first-year managers, Bill Terry and Joe Cronin and so today they accepted as a matter of course the fact that they must fight as never before toward this championship.

That this, under the circumstances, was to be a far from friendly series was further evidenced when the Senators strolled on the field shortly after the noon hour to be greeted with boos and cat calls from the rabid, partisan crowd.

At this comparatively early hour, the unreserved sections seemed sold out to practically the last seat, thus assuring a turn-away crowd. At this hour, too, the day was mild, bright and beautiful to see.

The sky was almost cloudless, the sun so dazzling as to be almost ghastly in its effect. Later, this may produce what the players call a "high" sky, bringing with it considerable difficulty in judging fly balls.

Friendly Crowd

This, of course, will only add to other difficulties, including the one the Senators expect to experience in hitting Carl Hubbell's screw-ball. Hubbell, the ranking left hander of baseball, was Terry's selection to oppose Walter Stewart for Washington.

The partisan crowd waited through the silent and depressing night for the general admission gates to open at ten o'clock this morning. What these citizens wanted was a victory for their "hittless wonders" who did it the hard way this year by winning without runs and scoring without hits.

They felt this was to be a return to old times, a real "baseball fan" series, instead of the glorified spectacles that baseball had come to know.

So they gathered early and waited with impatience through the early preliminaries of hitting and fielding practice.

It was a friendly crowd, too, even while making the visiting team understand that it was not among friends. It assembled quietly and composed itself for a big afternoon. There was no sign of disorder, either inside the park or out.

Dignitaries Present

Meantime, the Senators faced the left handed delivery of Bob Burke in batting practice, a concession to the fact that they had expected to hit against Hubbell this afternoon.

Subsequently, Chapman replaced Burke on the mound in batting practice. The Senators, facing the so-called "dead" ball of the National League, didn't do themselves exactly proud in batting practice. Buddy Myer hit a couple into the stands. Manush followed with another and so did Kuhel. But, for the most part, they were hitting them into the dirt.

The hits, on the other hand, seemed to be in a hitting mood. Ott lining three into the right field stands and many others including Terry, O'Doul and Jackson dropping some hot shots in among the customers.

All the dignitaries of baseball and civil life were there. So, judging from the clamor that went up when the Giants went out for fielding practice, was everybody else in the country.

The fans and the band warmed up at the same time and the Giants rolled back through a brilliant workout. Critz and Ryan came up with some dazzling stops and throws and every move drew a big hand from the good humored fans.

The Senators were generously applauded when they trotted out but to the surprise of the fans their workout was rather lackadaisical.

First Inning

Washington—Myer up. There was a long delay while the umpires cleared the field of cameramen and then time was called.

Myer up. Strike one, foul. Ball one, wide. Strike two, foul. Ball two, wide. Foul, back. Strike three, swung. Myer struck out. He kicked to Umpire Morcan claiming he had not swung at the ball.

Goslin up. Ball one, low; strike one, foul; strike two, called; ball two, wide; strike three, swung. Goslin missed the third strike on a sharp curve inside.

Manush up. Strike one, called; strike two, swung; ball one, wide; ball two, wide; strike three, swung. Manush missed the screw ball for a third strike.

Hubbell thus repeating a performance of Hod Eller in 1919 in retiring the side on strike.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

GIANTS—Moore up. Moore safe at first on Myer's fumble. Moore hit the first pitched ball and the Washington infielder kicked away an easy chance.

Critz up. Strike one, called; Critz out on a fly to Goslin. Moore holding first base.

Terry up. Strike one, foul; strike two, foul, back; Terry out on a foul to Sewell.

Ott up. Strike one, called. Ott hit a home run. Moore scored in front of Ott on the latter's home-run smash into the lower right field stand. He hit a curve on the second ball pitched.

Davis up. Ball one, inside; ball two, high; Davis singled to center. Jackson up. Strike one, swung; strike two, swung; Jackson out on a long fly to Schulte.

Two runs, two hits, one error, one left.

change fell like a bombshell, for Mr. McNab, a Republican, had only served slightly more than a year and three months of what normally is a four-year term.

MacNab succeeded Edwin W. Crawford to the postmastership. Acting Postmaster Steen today had assumed his new duties, carrying out the instructions which came to him over the signature of Postmaster General James A. Farley. It notified him to take charge at once.

Steen is a Democrat. Acting Postmaster Steen's name will probably be submitted by President Roosevelt to the United States for confirmation at the very earliest after convening of Congress.

Mr. Steen has been in the post office service here for the past 25 years.

MacNab Investigates

Former Postmaster MacNab left for Pittsburgh early today to ascertain, if possible, just what the reasons were for his dismissal, aside from the fact that he is a Republican. "The letter of notification said that the dismissal was being made for irregularities," said Mr. MacNab.

"Technically this is probably true. One of the irregularities charged is that the toilet room attached to the postmaster's office was not locked at night. This is true, but nothing was ever said to me that it should be locked."

"Another irregularity charged," he said is that arrangements should be made to have each stamp salesman individually responsible. This criticism was made in the last fifteen inspections of the office and should of course be remedied. However, to remedy it, it would be necessary to make certain changes in the floor plan of the past office and I went to the trouble of having these changes laid out in a plan."

"To make these changes would have meant the outlay of considerable money and in my report I suggested that inasmuch as the new post office would be ready for occupancy within a reasonably short time, it seemed like a waste of public money to spend any more on the old building at this time. Had the changes been authorized they would have been made."

Baer Is Silent

State Committeeman Wilbur J. Baer of the Democratic Party, who is the patronage dispenser for Lawrence County under the present administration, would make no formal statement in the matter today. He admitted that the reasons for MacNab's dismissal were based on certain "irregularities," but went on to explain that certain other reasons existed. These were political in nature.

The dismissal of MacNab as postmaster seems to bear out the statement of Postmaster General James A. Farley in a recent magazine article in which he said that Democrats would be appointed to public offices wherever possible, and that applicants would have to be F. R. B. C. which means, Franklin Roosevelt Before Congress.

Mr. Baer was a Roosevelt supporter in the Pennsylvania State Committee meetings before the convention and in the battle that ensued between the forces of Joseph Guffey who was for Roosevelt, and the Smith forces, Baer stayed with Guffey.

WILD ELECTION AT CLEVELAND

that rumors of planned irregularities had led him to assign a staff of five state inspectors here to supervise the voting.

Running for mayor are Congressman Martin L. Sweeney, insurgent Democrat; Mayor Ray T. Miller, organization Democrat; Republican Harry L. Davis, three times mayor and former Ohio governor, and I. O. Ford, Communist.

The election is non-partisan as specified in Cleveland's charter and the two candidates who receive the highest number of votes will be the nominees regardless of their political faith.

Woman's Club Begins Season With Program At Field Club

A program of an inspiring nature for the opening of a club season was that which characterized the initial session of the New Castle Woman's Club Monday afternoon in the ball room of the Field Club.

The ball room of the club house was a bower of beauty with its large baskets of fall flowers of every variety in colorful shades placed artistically on mantles, tables and piano. Mrs. B. H. Kauenberg, Mrs. Glenn Throope, Mrs. J. Glenn Berry and Mrs. R. S. Tannehill greeted the guests upon their arrival at the club and ushered them to their places.

Mrs. E. F. G. Harper, club president, welcomed the several hundred guests and members who filled the spacious ball room.

After the secretary's report was read by Mrs. H. C. Dinsmore, Mrs. Harper conducted an election of delegates for the state convention, which will be held in Pittsburgh October 9, 10, 11, 12 and 13 with the result that Mrs. S. E. Crawford, Mrs. H. C. Dinsmore were named delegates and Mrs. S. L. McCracken, Mrs. H. M. Kirk and Mrs. Cassius Balph were named alternates. Program of Day Concluding the business of the day, the meeting was turned over to Mrs. Harry Urmonson, who in turn introduced Mrs. Paul Welsh, who was in charge of the musical part of the afternoon's entertainment.

She presented Mrs. James A. Rugh, who, accompanied by Thomas H. Webber, Jr., sang two groups of numbers, including "Thrush in the Moonlight" by Tonnele; "The Sleep that Flits" by Carpenter; "Selection from a Persian Garden" by Lehman in the first group and "Circles" by Ernest Charles; "My Heart is a Lute" by Woodman and "Dawn" by Clokey, in the second group.

Miss Katherine Lewis, talented young pianist of the city, then pleased with two numbers "Malaguena" by Albéniz, and "Rider in the Night" by Garth Edmundson, local composer.

Mrs. Urmonson then introduced the speaker of the day, Miss Maude Miner, a tall, womanly woman of poise, dignity and charm, a lecturer and dramatic reader and a teacher in Chautauqua courses.

"She was the personification of Personal Efficiency which was her subject for the afternoon and the women hung breathless on her every word as she told them that personal efficiency can be gained by each and every person if the person will but give attention to his outlook on life, including the other part of life's thoughts and looking at life's prospectus from the other person's view point as well as his own.

She told the women to have a quality and quantity of vision, not to be content with just what you have but to strive for what you might possess; strive for a quality of freedom instead of self consciousness.

Miss Miner said in seeking personal efficiency a person must have poise, power, confidence in self, with a just appraisal of one's value; a mastery of something and magnanimity. The qualities one must discard are fear, deprecating of self; exaggerated ego, and lack of training. She urged the women to do more constructive thinking; to meet obligations effectively and to over ride the handicaps encountered. She gave them an appeal to aim for during the new club year.

Miss Miner is a most excellent example of her theories and the women of the city are trying to prevail upon her to conduct a series of lectures along the same line here during the coming months.

Among the outstanding guests at the club's initial session were Dr. H. L. Headland, professor of history of Slippery Rock College, and wife; Mrs. Bert Garvin of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.; Mrs. George Stitzinger, a former member of the club; Miss Mayne White, a former president of the Franklin Women's Club, and Dr. Maria White of India.

A wedding dinner served at the home of the brides parents, supplemented the reading of the nuptials, to guests numbering fifty. Covers marked for eight at the bridal table which was centered with a large cake topped with a small bride and groom.

VOTING PROBLEM IN NOVEMBER

PENNSYLVANIA will face a ballot problem in November different from the election five years ago, when the citizens last cast their votes on amendments to the State Constitution. In 1928 fourteen proposals were submitted, the full text being printed for every resolution. Fortunately an act of the General Assembly has since changed that requirement. Now the amendments will be summarized, saving a great deal of space and presumably couching the questions in simple language admitting no doubt of their purport. Probably, too, the referendums will be on the same sheet as the list of officials to be chosen for various county and municipal offices. County Commissioners, however, may decree separate ballots for the amendments if they choose.

But the names of delegates to the convention for the retention or repeal of the 18th Amendment to the Federal Constitution will require a second ballot. A third ballot will call for the voters' decision on the question of permitting baseball and football games on Sunday afternoons. In this matter each municipality will be autonomous and will exercise the right to decide for itself whether the sports are to be allowed within its own community.

The local option vote on beer, where it is to be taken, will require a fourth ballot and will present an added complexity for 321 municipalities in 34 counties. Under the local option provision of the beverage license law a referendum will be conducted to learn whether the community will approve the sale of beer, petitions for the purpose having received the adequate number of signatures. The vote will be taken in New Castle and other Lawrence county districts.

Perhaps never before have the inhabitants of this Commonwealth had so large an opportunity for direct legislation by popular vote as afforded by the coming election. Likewise, perhaps, never before have they had a multiplicity of ballots as may be afforded in some instances next November.

THE SAFE DRIVERS' CODE

There is one badly needed code which will not have to await an official signature. It affects every person in the country, and its adoption should be unanimous. It is "The Safe Drivers' Code."

Accident statistics reported to June 30, 1933, according to the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters, showed that 12,920 persons had been killed by automobiles this year. The indications, judging from unofficial reports in July and August, are that final results may show a decided increase in deaths and accidents for 1933. This is doubly significant, because there are nearly 10 per cent fewer automobiles registered in the United States this year than in 1931.

To motorists, therefore, and to pedestrians and all users of our streets and highways, the following code is directed:

1. Regulate your speed to fit traffic conditions; keep your car under control at all times.
2. Slow down for intersections, and obey traffic signals.
3. Use better judgment in passing, waiting until there is at least 500 feet of clear distance ahead.
4. Pedestrians: Cross at crosswalks; walk on the left side facing traffic; obey traffic signals.
5. Remember that automobile accidents constitute an economic waste totaling billions, through property damage, high insurance costs, increased taxes, etc.

Every motorist should feel that it is his duty and privilege to pledge himself to this code.

GROWN UP STUDENTS

An American girl of Swedish ancestry, returning from a year at the University of Stockholm, expresses her surprise at the difference between American and foreign students.

"Swedish college boys and girls are mature, serious people," she says. "They are not obliged to conform to any rules and regulations, because it isn't necessary. But there is no college life, no fun, no friendships with the professors. And how those serious young people do work! They have been trained to work since childhood."

On the whole, we're just as well satisfied that our boys and girls don't work so hard, and have a good time at college along with their work. Yet we sometimes wonder if their childhood isn't a little too prolonged, and wish they'd grow up faster.

Well, anyway, the World series has turned the corner.

"Really," said the boarder promptly, "then I think this is one of your first attempts."

DON'T OFFEND BY RESTLESS-NESS

Why be such a "flutter budget"—keeping yourself in a turmoil, and irritating those around you?

Speeding from one place to another, hustling, jostling, trying to quicken the speed of others, you make yourself most annoying.

Your friends wish you would be calm, for they are weary of watching you.

While others converse, you seem to be thinking of something to do in a physical way—hands moving, arms jerking, feet shuffling, rubbing your chin or behind your ears, or scratching your elbow or your knee—perpetual motion.

Then the questions you ask, not waiting for an answer, and the way you try to get others stirred up to join you in some activity or other.

Sensible people are quiet, sometimes, and even get their greatest enjoyment in composure.

You don't sit still long enough to read and get something out of it, and you make it intensely uncomfortable for those who wish to read or study.

The "Let's do something" sort of person is a pest; the ever-moving person a nuisance.

Sit down and be quiet.

COMMONPLACE LIVES

They say it calls for strength and grace

To glorify the commonplace;

That humdrum living and the tasks

Which dreary duty daily asks.

To which no end on earth can be

Should crush the souls of men like me.

But still with every meal we eat

There rings the children's laughter sweet.

Through every dull and dreary day

We hear the children at their play.

And when at night we sit to sup

'Tis good to see them growing up.

One need not pity us because

We miss the multitude's applause.

Nor write our lives as boredom down

Because we gather no renown.

I know not what the Lord intends

For man beyond a few good friends.

A sheltering roof and peace of mind—

And these within our reach we find.

Though madder revelries we miss

Time may bestow the greater bliss.

Of splendid men and women known

To pay for all the care we've known.

I am content to brave the day

And walk the dull and tedious way

In flames which light our little fire

Lie dreams beyond our own desire.

The weary mother hums a song

Though tasks be many, hours be long.

And gladly borne is every ache

Of struggle for the children's sake.

LETTER FROM JOE
Office of Joe Bulger, Birmingham, Alabama, September 30, 1933.

Fred Rentz, News Company, New Castle, Pennsylvania.

I duly received from Chicago your postal card in-type where you had your picture taken going into the Egyptian theater. If you would have waited to have had the same taken when you were coming out of this place instead of going in the back of your neck and your face would show up a whole lot more red than it did the time I met you coming out of the Egyptian theater in Pittsburgh when you were supposed to be entertaining the officers of the Sunday school Association.

At your age Fred it looks to me like you ought not to try to be as young as you used to be and I thought after I had wrote you an essay last year as regards visiting a lot of unusual shows in New York when you was at the publishers' convention you might have mended your ways.

As regards this Egyptian theater at the Chicago worlds fare I see there in the Egyptian theater Little Egypt do her performance. I been waiting all these years for another worlds fare to be had in Chicago so I could go back and maybe see Little Egypt again. But what is all for you on account you got a different temperament from mine.

As regards your conduct since I have been away from Coaltown, I would have wrote you more essays in regard to the same except I have been very busy making some experiments in cooking up sea weed with mustard seeds etcetera and on account I hear some of the same boiling over now I got to stop this letter and run to take care of the same.

the modern so-called criminals and terrorists:

"At heart," he says, "they are all rats—dirty, yellow rats. A gangster will kill you, oh sure, if he has a machine gun and you are absolutely helpless. They like to think they are above the law, but they actually operate most of the time with one eye on the electric chair."

TRIALS OF AN EDITOR
A little boy was asked to write an essay on editors, which he did as follows:

"If an editor makes a mistake folks says he ought to be hung; and if a doctor makes a mistake he buries it and people dassant say anything because doctors can read and write latin."

"When an editor makes a mistake there's a lawsuit and a big fuss; but if a doctor makes one there is a funeral, cut flowers and perfect silence. A doctor can use a word a mile long, but if an editor uses one he has to spell it."

"If a doctor goes out to see another man's wife, he charges for the visit. But if the editor goes he gets a charge of buck shot."

"When the doctor gets drunk it's a case of being overcome by the heat. And if he dies it's from heart trouble. But if the editor gets drunk it's a case of too much booze and if he dies it's a jubilee."

"Any college man can be a doctor. An editor has to be born."

And still more about editors is told in the following editorial from the Plant City Courier:

"Like all good community boosters, Editor Shannon of the Commerce (Ga.) News tries to aid his home merchants by advocating a trade-at-home policy."

"The many another good community booster, Editor Shannon sometimes gets discouraged through lack of appreciation on the part of those for whom he tries to boost. But let him tell it in his own concise fashion:

"Two weeks ago we penned the best editorial we knew how to write, doing our best to encourage the people of all this section to patronize home merchants—and bless your heart, home, not a single business man in Commerce has even said 'thank you.' That goes to show what it goes to show."

"Which leads the Tifton Gazette to remark that is Editor Shannon had urged folks to 'buy it away from home' he would never have lived long enough to hear the last of the holler that would have been raised."

But all this is by and large, and perhaps the fellows who wrote the above lamentations were caught at the typewriter in a sour mood."

As a matter of fact, to a true newspaper man, the profession is one of never-ending novelty and surprise, where there is, as there is in all professions, a certain amount of uncertainty and an occasional unhappy circumstance, but where there is also a wealth of inspiration, a constant succession of pleasant surprises, and a never-ending appreciation of the privileges that editorship brings about.

We become more refined. Back in 1910 the woman who shot her man had to work in vaudeville instead of writing for the papers.

Editors Agree With Dean Ackerman Of Columbia University That Constitutional Provision Should Be Upheld In Present Emergency

Editorial opinion indorses statements made in the annual report of Dean Carl W. Ackerman of the school of journalism at Columbia university that wisdom was shown by the press in maintaining its constitutional right to free expression when the newspaper code was framed. It is freely stated that the newspaper has a quality of public service in this respect that is entirely absent from the activities of the radio and motion pictures.

"Dean Ackerman rightly states," according to the CHICAGO DAILY NEWS, "that the newspapers have exercised an invaluable stabilizing influence on public opinion in a time of great anxiety, and that their attitude has been constructive." The Daily News points out that "the radio is subject to license by the government, while the press, under the constitution, cannot be so controlled," and concludes:

"It is in periods of national emergency that constitutional guarantees are most needed and most in danger. If such rights as freedom of the press are not safeguarded, they may disappear before the people are aware. Dean Ackerman has performed a useful public service in pointing out the dangers of the present trend of opinion. The press on its part would be unworthy of its high mission if it did not continue to perform its duty, regardless of any momentary hysteria or pressure generated by interested parties for abrogation of its independence."

"The newspapers offer the only remaining forum of free public discussion," declares the PHILADELPHIA PUBLIC LEDGER, with the statement that "the printed word permits a kind of consideration which cannot be given to the unspeakable voice of the loud speaker or the quick flash of the motion picture screen." The Ledger agrees that "not even in a time of national emergency can these rights and privileges be safely sacrificed to expediency or subordinated to political authority."

Referring to the fact that "in Italy and Germany the one-party system prevails and that 'citizens are members of the party in control or they are, to all intents and purposes, outlawed,'" the YAKIMA DAILY REPUBLICAN offers recognition of difference in the spirit of the United States, and the expressed conviction: "It is impossible for everybody to be right on any question, but if those who are wrong are to be prohibited from expressing their fallacious views, then it is but a short step to thralldom. There are few who will charge the administration with any serious intention to take from citizens the divine heritage of being wrong and of giving expression in their own way to what they think."

The provision of the constitution on which the newspapers took their stand, quoted by the RUTLAND HERALD, is in these words: "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion; prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the government for a redress of grievances." The Herald advises the public as to what might happen at some future time, if this right were now abridged: "Without such freedom government could oppress the states; states could oppress cities; city government could oppress the people. There would be no means of publicity to expose such 'justice and no way to tell the people what was being done to them. The acts of criminals would be unknown except to the few who suffered by them. There could be no 1187—Jerusalem the Golden was captured & sacked by Salah-ed-din Y—'at Ibn Ayub, called Saladin, and he was sultan of Egypt & Syria, conqueror of Meopotamia & the Seljuk princes of Asia Minor. His invasion of Palestine was not an anti-Christian campaign but a bid for more territory and a vital spot needed in the consolidation of his eastern domain. After defeating one Christian army and nearly wiping it out, he was forced to surrender the city by Richard I of England, the Lion-hearted, but not for long. An able general who was more than a match for Europe's best, he even had his opponent recognize his chivalry, piety, and justice; and his wise administration left traces for centuries in roads and canals.

1691—The Irish began their objections to British rule, for on this date the Treaty of Limerick was signed. It ended a war, acknowledged William II, ruler of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland. The Irish lost home rule, gained religious freedom, for the treaty certified that right to practice Roman Catholicism. (The Church of England was and is the state church.)

1656—Miles Standish died, aged 72. Captain of the Plymouth settlers, he nevertheless was no Puritan, or a member of any church; and he was the smallest man in the colony. He was chosen for his courage the made Amerindians for miles around fearful of attacking the colony. But he did not have the courage to propose to Priscilla Mullins who was 37 years his junior, when he wanted a second wife. Admires Service Of People Of Community In Welfare Campaign

"Whenever I think of the plans and purposes of the Community Chest here, and its wide-spread support in New Castle, I find that my heart swells with admiration for the manner in which the good people of this community work together for such an unselfish worthy cause," declared Louis B. Round, vice president and general manager of the Pennsylvania Power company and chairman of the Chest's campaign committee, today.

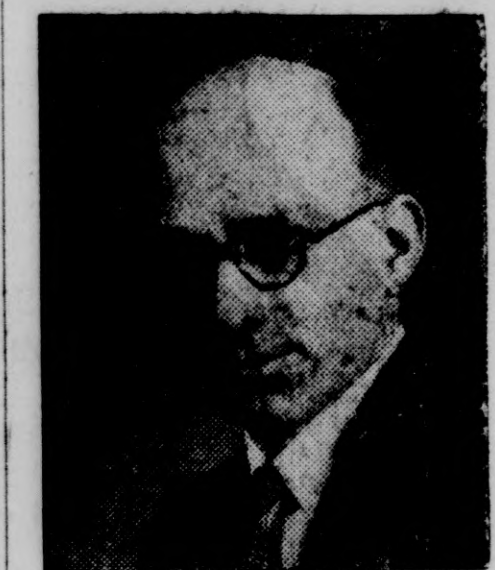

"In the first place there is nothing written in man's law that requires him to give time and money to volunteer organizations for the care and betterment of the less fortunate," said Mr. Round, "but for years before the Chest drive we had various social welfare and charitable organizations functioning in this city. Men and women who had everything needed for their own business and social requirements gave evidence of thinking of those who needed help. They organized and assisted the work of the various agencies."

"Naturally, those who became interested in one or two of these individual activities developed a feeling of responsibility for them, as well as an interest in their functions. And when the Community Chest was proposed, inviting most of the agencies to join together there was some feeling, on the part of nearly all sponsors of individual activities, a feeling akin to competition or jealousy, or something smattering of a selfish desire to see their own 'child' unhampered by being grouped with others, which they probably felt, were less necessary and deserving."

"But with the same unselfishness that prompted their work" stated

Two Women Get Permit To Carry Gun From Chief

Women are not very anxious apparently in this district to get permits to carry firearms, according to Chief of Police John F. Haven. About one out of every hundred permits issued by Chief Haven since June 15, 1932, have been issued to women, in fact the actual number of such permits issued to women by the chief has been two and the total number issued to date by the chief has been 204.

The women securing permits from the chief secured it for the purpose of carrying sidearms, while out with a hunting party. None has applied for the permit so far, in order to protect herself in their every day life in this community.

Employees May Not Be Discharged To Reduce Salaries Under Code

Several rulings, which answer questions which have arisen here recently, have been received in a recent liaison circular by Marcus Feuchtwanger, chairman of the local Compliance Board of the NRA.

Among these are rulings on hiring and discharging of employees, simply to reduce payrolls, ruling on persons who are limited in their earning capacity through disability, and ruling on classification of workers on golf courses. These rulings follow:

"Workers on golf courses are clearly covered by Paragraph 2 of the P. R. A., and can in no sense be considered agricultural workers. Gardeners, if employed by a private home, are considered domestics, and therefore, exempt from the hours and wages provision of the P. R. A. on the grounds of being domestics.

"Inefficient employees. There is nothing in the President's Agreement or in any of the accepted substitutions made thereunder, which prevents an employer replacing incompetent employees with competent ones; provided of course, the new employees are paid the maximum wage and are not required to work longer hours. However, discharging employees earning substantially over the minimum wage, in order to replace them with employees at a lower wage is a violation of Paragraph 8 of the P. R. A.

"Persons who are limited in their earning capacity through physical or mental defects, age, or other infirmities, may be employed on light duty below the minimum wage set by the P. R. A. and for longer hours than are therein authorized, provided the employees obtain from the State Labor Commissioner, a certificate authorizing the employment of such defectives in such manner.

All Chest Budgets Closely Scrutinized Says Committee Head

Announcing that $70,000 will be the goal toward which the Community Chest campaign of this year will be directed, Chairman E. E. McGill of the Chest's important budget committee, made it plain today his committee never overlooked a chance to eliminate any unnecessary expense on the part of the eight participating social and welfare agencies.

Mr. McGill pointed out that close scrutiny was made of the budget appropriations to the Jameson Memorial hospital, the Y. M. C. A., the Y. W. C. A., Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, Red Cross, Margaret L. Henry Children's home and the City Rescue Mission to determine if a lower figure might be established. These disclosed that $70,000 must be the minimum.

"We find that all of these organizations operated on a hard-time basis during the past year," Mr. McGill went on to say, "and we have further learned that many of them eliminated entirely and rather ruthlessly, many items of expense which was for necessary service, but which in hard times had to be sacrificed."

Serving with Mr. McGill on his committee were William F. Moody and Quincy A. McBride. Each year the budget committee sets the money goal to be obtained.

At a recent session this year's committee decided that the following quotas would be "most necessary" for the participating agencies:

- Boy Scouts, $6,000.00.
- Girl Scouts, $5,000.00.
- Jameson Memorial hospital, $17,827.11.
- Margaret Henry Home, $5,500.00.
- Red Cross, $4,300.00.
- City Rescue Mission, $4,000.00.
- Y. M. C. A., $9,924.00.
- Y. W. C. A., $9,500.00.

For Chest administration, campaign and collection, $4,500.00. Shrinkage on pledges (As determined on pledges made over a period of three years), $8,000.00. Total objective, $70,000.00.

Two new organizations, the Jameson hospital and the Girl Scouts, were added to the Chest group this year.

The decisions of the budget committee, Mr. McGill concluded, were reached after they had reviewed a statement which revealed each agency's receipts and expenditures during 1932 and 1933, and thus the committee had before it exactly the incoming and outgoing funds with the deficit that had to be made up by public subscriptions for 1934's work. The Community Chest, it was reminded, is only a movement aiming solely to make up the annual deficits of the different Chest agencies.

about Cigarettes

Of all the ways in which tobacco is used the cigarette is the mildest form

YOU know, ever since the Indians found out the pleasure of smoking tobacco, there have been many ways of enjoying it.

But of all the ways in which tobacco is used, the cigarette is the mildest form.

Another thing—cigarettes are about the most convenient smoke. All you have to do is strike a match.

Everything that money can buy and everything that science knows about is used to make Chesterfields.

The right home-grown tobaccos—seasoned with just enough aromatic Turkish—are blended and cross-blended the Chesterfield way.

Then the cigarettes are made right—firm, well-filled. Chesterfield uses the right kind of pure cigarette paper.

There are other good cigarettes, of course, but Chesterfield is the cigarette that's milder, the cigarette that tastes better. Chesterfields satisfy—we ask you to try them.

Weekly Health Talk

"There is no type of information about which so little concern is given as to its source than that associated with bodily ills. And of all such advice, non-professionally inspired and usually unsolicited, that relating to diet receives the readiest ear," states Dr. Theodore B. Appel, State Secretary of Health.

"Because of high-powered literature, both in advertising and narrative form, that has been published on the subject of weight, as well as the small army of self-styled diet experts, America most decidedly has been made diet-conscious. Now, this fact in itself is all right. The trouble only arises when the weight reducing begins.

"For instance, only a week ago a middle-aged woman died. Her fanatical attempts to take off weight undoubtedly were the cause of her death. Having listened to the false theories of a friend who had become sold to the 'eighteen-day-pound-a-day' rule, without further ado she adopted it, thereby losing both weight and life.

"Surrounded by physicians capable of guiding her properly in a reasonable regimen to remove a reasonable amount of superfluous flesh this foolish woman turned her back upon approved and scientific methods and "went ex-Hollywood" for even Hollywood now respects natural curves and rounded corners. The fact that she was indulging in a highly dangerous experiment upon the say-so of a friend completely unqualified to advise, apparently mattered not in the least to her. And now it matters to her not at all!

"The amount of trust that many persons are willing to give to unauthorized medical suggestions is indeed difficult to explain. There are even those who refuse to take advice from unapproved sources on the subject of diet. Usually there are a half dozen or more licenses issued to women. County Treasurer

"What one should remember is that weight control needs professional supervision. The average person who imagines or knows that he is overweight should seek professional counsel. In all probability, speaking in averages, the diet as outlined by a physician will be much less rigid than expected. Doctors realize that it took years to gain the excess weight and that months of rational and painless dieting are required to remove it. Heroic methods are seldom employed.

"In short, weight control is a subject commended to those who will be benefited by it. But by all means see that the control is professionally advocated. Let the butcher, the baker and the candlestick maker stick to their trades."

Two Applications For Divorce Filed

Bessie Strutz has filed an application at the prothonotary's office for a divorce from her husband, Rudolph I. Strutz, on the grounds of cruelty and desertion. They were married in February, 1922 and lived together until September, 1928.

Peter Rahue has filed an application for divorce from his wife, Lydia Rahue, on the grounds of indignities. They were married in January, 1913, and lived together until January, 1933.

Mrs. Horner Gets License To Hunt

So far only one woman has secured a hunting license at the county treasurer's office this year, Mrs. Elizabeth B. Horner, wife of Dr. William W. Horner. Usually there are a half dozen or more licenses issued to women. County Treasurer

William O. Pitts reports that only 478 hunting licenses have yet been issued. A big rush is expected from now until the opening of the hunting season.

LEGION MEMBERS TO MARCH TODAY IN CHICAGO

Annual Parade To Feature Day

President's Address Before Convention On Monday Causes Controversy

MANY DELEGATES OPPOSE IDEAS

No Embarrassment Likely For President As Result Of Address, However

By EUGENE J. CADOU
International News Service Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 3.—President Roosevelt will suffer no embarrassment from the fifteen annual national convention of the American Legion. That fact was apparent here today as legionnaires mulled over the daring speech of the chief executive before the Legion gathering yesterday.

Curiously, few members of the veterans' organization agreed totally with the policies affecting ex-service men which were enunciated by the chief executive.

Yet, among the leaders as well as the rank and file, the president undoubtedly had lost little strength.

As the veterans today went into formation for the annual convention parade, they viewed the president, who donned a Legion convention cap yesterday, as a "buddy."

who spoke up in post meeting but who may be voted down not from prejudice but because of an honest difference of opinion.

The legionnaires prepared to further their four-point program, regardless of the president's views. Only a few hours after the president spoke the national rehabilitation committee had voted to continue that policy and the 125,000 men who paraded through the loop today were expected to back the committee to the limit.

Edwards Hayes, of Decatur, Ill., vice chairman of the rehabilitation committee, is a leading candidate for national commander.

Oppose Theory
Committee members, legion chieftains and the privates in the ranks were nearly unanimous in opposing the president's contention that the veteran who becomes disabled now, not because of war service, should receive more from the government than an ordinary civilian.

The veterans contend that on this theory, the slacker would be placed on a par with the man who went to the front in 1917.

National Commander Louis Johnson, who was revamping a speech he prepared for delivery today, was certain to emphasize this contention.

Johnson is to have addressed the convention yesterday, but his speech was postponed because of the appearance of the president.

Nevertheless, the convention resolutions committee will draft no fiery criticism of the president, according to legion chieftains. It merely will outline the points of disagreement with the chief executive and perhaps even express confidence in his general attitude towards the war fighters.

The destruction was evidently the work of boys and young men, according to Mrs. Huff, who have no appreciation of the time and effort that the hedge represented and the value that it represents in money to the owner. The property is occupied at the present time by Tom Moore. Mrs. Huff has reported the matter to the police and proposes prosecuting the persons responsible for the destruction.

City To Acquire Park Boulevard

Mayor Mayne Says That Negotiations Are Being Conducted On Project

Mayor Charles B. Mayne, councilmanic colleagues and a representative of the New Castle Street Electric railway today conferred at city hall relative to the proposed acquisition by the city of the right of way of the company from Hamilton street to Cascade Park. Indications are, according to the mayor that the negotiations will be successful and that before long work on Cascade boulevard will be resumed.

It developed during the conference, it is reported, that the state highway department proposed to repave Washington street between Front and County Line street.

The city has indicated its willingness to remove the rails in West Washington, between Front street and Greenwood avenue if the company gives the city a deed for the right of way from Hamilton street to Cascade Park.

Not long ago work along the right of way was stopped upon orders of the state, inasmuch as the right of way was private property.

As a general rule, the less respect he has for law, the more he clamors for his legal rights.

SEVENTH WARD NEWS

Some Very Tired
Hounds This WeekThey Are Getting Annual Pre-
Hunting Season Exercise
At Hands Of Owners

Such subjects as baseball, football and tennis have been given an obscure place in the background of conversation this week in seventh ward, and unless you are talking about hounds, your words might just as well not be spoken.

Small game season comes in November 1 and the local hunters are preparing for that not-too-far-away Wednesday morning. Hounds who have been leading a life of leisure during the summer months are now being whipped into shape. Most of the dogs put on weight and got stiff in the legs during their long activity and are finding, like Jack Dempsey, that come-backs are not so easy.

West Clayton street and the south-eastern parts of the ward seem to be the chief exercising territories.

PREPARATORY SERVICE
At a meeting of the church session last night it was decided to have the Mahoningtown Presbyterian preparatory service on the evening of Wednesday, October 11, with communion following on Sunday, October 15.

BIDDING AUTHORS
It won't be long now until little Irene, Shirley, Jack and the rest of the first graders of Mahoningtown will be able to write notes to each other, judging from the way their penmanship is coming along. Posted in the first corridor of the school are samples of writing done by the youngsters. Already they can write "me, run, is, can, and, him, no, girl, the, she, do, by, are, boy, or, dog, in, be, cat," and they can sign their own first names.

SOME NEW BOOKS
Here are some new books that may be borrowed from the Mahoning library. They are at present on the rental shelves:

The Master of Jalna—Mazo de la Roche
Love's Puzzle—Faith Baldwin
Carr—Phyllis Bentley
Miss Bishop—Bess Streeter Aldrich
Dona Celestis—Ethel M. Dell
The Judas Tree—Neil H. Swanson
William C. MacDonald's Saw of the Forty Fives
For Honor and Life—William MacLeod Raine
Vanessa—Hugh Walpole.

If you want to GET RID of Constipation worries—Science says Today
use a LIQUID Laxative

1. Control intestinal action exactly—no "purging"
2. Measure to suit your individual needs to the drop
3. Banish Bowel Fatigue and the laxative habit

Here's Why:

Any hospital offers evidence of the harm done by harsh laxatives that drain the system, weaken the bowel muscles, and in some cases even affect the liver and kidneys.

A doctor will tell you that the unwise choice of laxatives is a common cause of chronic constipation. Fortunately, the public is fast returning to the use of laxatives in liquid form.

A properly prepared liquid laxative brings a perfect movement. There is no discomfort at the time and no weakness after. You don't have to take "a double dose" a day or two later.

In buying any laxative, always read the label. Not the claims, but the contents. If it contains one doubtful drug, don't take it.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a prescription preparation in which there are no mineral drugs. Its ingredients are on the label. By using it, you avoid danger of bowel strain. You can keep the bowels regular, and comfortable; you can make constipated spells as rare as colds.

The liquid test:

This test has proved to many men and women that their trouble was not "weak bowels", but strong cathartics.

First. Select a good liquid laxative. 2. Take the dose you find is suited to your system. 3. Gradually reduce the dose until bowels are moving regularly without any need of stimulation.

Syrup pepsin has the highest standing among liquid laxatives, and is the one generally used. It contains senna, a natural laxative which is perfectly safe for the youngest child. Your druggist has Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Giants And Washington Opens Series Today

New York Giants Pin Hope On Arm Of Carl Hubbell

Manager Cronin, Of Washington Senators, Refuses To Name Starting Pitcher

Giants Favored To Win The First Game; Washington Is Favored For The Championship

By DAVID J. WALSH

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—For a moment, there will be only the solemn, breathless hush that comes instinctively as history is in creation and drama is about to be done. Up in the stands, 50,000 people will sit, silenced and suddenly tense. Down on the field, like actors waiting over-long for their cue, the principals will make gestures that are empty, meaningless, automatic—and immemorial.

Then out in the open under a spotlight as candidly pitiless as the arm, a flash of white hurtling toward the plate and he'll be in the midst of the 1933 World Series between the New York Giants and the Washington Senators, a great series; perhaps the greatest of them all. This will be the start. The finish, none can forecast, except that it can be violent and must be acute. It was that way nine years ago when Washington won when all seemed lost and a maddened populace paraded through the night, mouthing strangely. It can't miss now.

One club features pitching and general defense, the other hitting and all around balance. They are not, then, to match strength with strength, for what one may lack the other has. Only in courage, it seems, are they equal. No, this series can't miss.

Even the weather is favorable, for this morning dawned clear though slightly cool, assuring a dry field and perhaps a turn-away crowd for the opening game.

Giants Favored Today

The Giants, trailing in the odds on the series at a shortened price of 3 to 4, nevertheless were favored to take the first game for several reasons. One was that the National League's "dead ball" will be in use; another that the Senators

Salient Facts On First Game

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Pertinent facts on the world series, first game of which will be played at the Polo Grounds today:

Thirtieth world series. New York Giants vs. Washington Senators.

Decision. First four out of seven games.

Prize: 70 per cent of receipts of first four games goes into players' pool, to be split 60 per cent to winners and 40 per cent to losers.

Time of game: 1:30 P. M. E. S. T.

Games 1, 2, 6 and 7 at Polo Grounds, New York. Games 3, 4 and 5 at Griffith Stadium, Washington.

Probable attendance at first game, 50,000. Probable gross receipts, first game, about $200,000.

seem to lack the "pull" type of hitter necessary to succeed at the Polo grounds. But the big and abiding reason was Carl Hubbell, the man who stands alone.

Picked by his manager to pitch this crucial game weeks in advance and by some critics to steal the show, this quiet, drawing character from the southwest is strictly on the spot today. They say he must win or the Giants are through. In any case, he must win or posterity must pass him by. It does not accept failure at a time when only success is tolerable. Hubbell, as claimed by many, may be the greatest pitcher in baseball but, if he doesn't win as much as twice in this series, his name will be anathema.

The Washington choice lies among Crowder, Whitehill and Stewart and none will know who it is until the announcement comes just before game-time. They say now that it will be Walter Stewart, thus making the strictly a left handed inaugural, while matching Washington's one-game pitcher with the man who hopes to win three.

New Castle To Play Union On Friday Night

New Castle's Fourth Game Of Season Will Be With Union High

TAGGART FIELD SCENE OF GAME

New Castle high school football team with three victories in three starts will play Union high at Taggart Field Friday night under the floodlights. The game will start at 8 o'clock.

The New Castle team came out of the tough engagement at Charleroi in good shape, with the exception of a few bruises, but nothing of serious nature.

Coach Philip H. Bridenbaugh will give the New Castle team a tough workout this week. Union high is not being underestimated by the local mentor. Union gave New Castle a fine game last year. Coach Boyd will work hard with his Union team this week to have them in the best of shape for the big game at Taggart Field.

Howley Needed.

If New Castle continues to show the fight that made them famous in the second half of the Charleroi game, it is going to take a mighty sweet looking football team to defeat them. Joe Howley is on the mend and will no doubt get a lot of attention this week. Howley's presence in that Charleroi battle was the spark that spurred the "Red Hurricanes" into action.

New Castle is looking ahead to the game a week from this Friday night when Washington high will come here for the second Class AA conference game.

Coach Bridenbaugh gave his regulars a rest on Monday. The reserves were put through their routine work, with Assistant Coach Bill Klee giving them a few warming up exercises. It is Bridenbaugh's desire to have his varsity team in good physical shape for the game Friday night.

Minor League Stars Drafted By Big Leagues

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Eight major league ball clubs selected 12 players from the minors by draft at the annual major league draft meeting held here last night. Philadelphia and Brooklyn of the National League each took three players.

The New York Giants took Fresno Thompson, Buffalo (International league) second baseman.

St. Louis Americans drafted Buck Newsom, pitcher, Los Angeles, who formerly played with Chicago and Brooklyn.

The Cincinnati Reds took Irving Jeffries, formerly of the Chicago Americans, who batted .343 for St. Paul in 1933.

Pitchers Davis and Darrow of San Francisco and Galveston, respectively, and Louis Chiozza, powerful Memphis hitter, went to the Phillies.

James Bucher, second baseman beginning to Columbus but who played with Greensboro this year; Glenn Chapman, Indianapolis outfielder, and Ray Berres, Birmingham catcher, will report to Brooklyn.

Other players drafted were Eddie Morgan, former Cleveland first baseman, recently with New Orleans, going to the Boston Americans; Ray Holland, Indianapolis outfielder, drafted by Cleveland, and Art Veltman, picked by Pittsburgh from Cleveland.

WOLVERINE BIG TEN'S BEST KICKER

On the "educated toe" of John Regenci, University of Michigan fullback, partially rest the Wolverines' hopes for a second consecutive undisputed Western conference grid title. Regenci is hailed as the best punter in the Big Ten.

Two Knockouts In Amateur Bouts At Bowl Monday Night

Atkinson, Of Ellport, Wins By Knockout Over Adamo

Paglia Wins On Foul From Tamber; All Of Bouts Full Of Action

Patrons of the art of boxing were treated to another slam-bang eight-bout amateur boxing show at Castle bowl last night. Two knockouts featured the bill. A crowd of over 1,500 fans attended the show staged by the Jefferson A. C. with Eddie Fritz as matchmaker and left the bowl after the eighth bout satisfied with the efforts put forth by the "Simon Pures". There was action from start to finish in almost every round. Several times the crowd was on its feet and cheering madly for favorites to deliver knockout drops.

It was New Castle's third amateur show and one that pleased the fans most highly. There were no dull moments.

George Rocco of Ellwood City was matched with Jack Smith of Youngstown, O. in the eighth and final bout in the 160-pound middleweight class, and the fight hardly got started in the first round until the Ellwood City boy had Smith writhing on the floor with solid punches to the head and chin. Smith folded up in the middle of the round and Rocco was credited with a knockout.

Adamo is Kayced.

In the seventh bout, welterweights 147-pound class, Tony Adamo of New Castle was knocked out again by Ray Atkinson of Ellport, Pa. This was perhaps the best bout on the program. It was punch and punch from the first bell. Adamo more than held his own with Atkinson in the first round, with both boys standing toe to toe and slugging for dear life. In the second Adamo left a small opening and Atkinson swung a terrific right to the chin that floored Adamo. Adamo got up, but another two-fisted attack finished him. The fans were on their feet yelling when Adamo went down. The bout was one of the best seen at the bowl in some time and until the knockout came it was anybody's fight.

Custy Marino of Ellwood City won a decision from Sammy Cretella of Youngstown, Ohio, in the 135-pound lightweight class in the sixth bout on the bill. Marino was the better puncher of the two and landed cleaner blows. Cretella was game and absorbed a lot of punches, but he would not go down for the count. Marino was the unanimous winner, according to the judges.

Mickie Cutie Wins.

Mickie Cutie of Youngstown, O., fought Jimmy Dragoes of Farrell, Pa., in the flyweight 112-pound class in the fifth bout on the card and the Youngstown boy won the decision of the judges. Cutie was too clever for Dragoes. Several times the Ohio mite rocked the Farrell entry with solid punches to the head and chin. Dragoes was game and put up a nice fight.

The fourth bout on the card was won by Joey Evans of Ellport, Pa., over Tony Talerico of Beaver Falls.

Westminster To Play At Olean, Saturday

(Special To The News)

NEW WILLINGTON, Pa., Oct. 3.—Westminster will play its second football game of the year at Olean, N. Y., this Saturday when it opposes St. Bonaventure. The Titans did not have a game last Saturday, so Coach Lawther called for scrimmage sessions five times during the week in order to iron out mistakes of the opening game, September 23, when Slippery Rock won 13-6.

Last year St. Bonaventure defeated the Titans by a 13-7 score at Olean. The Titans were leading 7-6 at half, but the Bonnies scored a touchdown toward the end of the contest. Ray Sweeney, diminutive quarterback for the Titans, was the star of last year's game.

The Titans will leave here Friday by bus and will make their headquarters in Bradford, Pa. The game will be played Saturday afternoon at 2:30 at Olean, N. Y., a few miles from St. Bonaventure. Coach Relly of the Bonnies has a strong outfit and is favored to repeat last year's win over the Titans, but the improvement of the Westminster team since the opening game would indicate that the Bonnies will be given a good battle.

Terry-Cronin Both Confident

Respective Managers Of World Series Team Look For Great Set Of Games

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Pre-battle statements were issued today by Manager Joe Cronin of the Washington Senators and Manager Bill Terry of the New York Giants.

Terry said: "I think in a short series pitching counts and this will be a short series. Washington may have the hitting but we have the pitching and I think this balances the scales. It should be a great series. I hope it is."

Cronin said: "We are taking the field confident of victory. We have a lot of respect for their pitching, but I'm satisfied we will win, regardless of how long it takes."

Stocks Firm Up As Session Progresses Today; Accumulation of Overnight Selling

UTILITY STOCKS
APPEAR STEADY

By LESLIE GOULD
International News Service Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Stocks firmed up as the session progressed today and as the accumulation of overnight selling orders was disposed of in the first hour of trading. Speculative interest continued apathetic with traders for the most part hugging the sidelines until the monetary situation was clarified.

Easiness in the dollar and the advance in the value of gold to a new record high in London were negligible in their effect on the list as a whole.

Railroad shares which, at the start, had been under some pressure resulting in losses of fractions to more than a point turned slightly better with New York Central even on the day as was Chicago & North Western and Southern Railway.

Utility stocks were quiet and comparatively steady. The motor shares were aided by the strength in General Motors and Chrysler.

The advance in gold aided the metal shares including Alaska Juneau and U. S. Smelting. Liquor shares were quiet and firm under the lead of National Distillers.

Commodity markets were easy with wheat off fractionally and cotton down about 25 cents a bale.

Another Delay In Counting The Vote

Ballot Box From Second Precinct Of Eighth Ward To Be Brought In

Further delay in securing official totals of the vote cast at the recent election was occasioned this morning when Robert M. Strickler secured an order of court directing that the ballot box from the second precinct of the eighth ward be brought in.

When the count for this district was made it was found that for the office of sheriff 291 ballots had been cast and 296 counted. This was straightened out, however, without the necessity of opening the box.

Mr. Strickler believes that if there was an error on the sheriff vote, there may be an error in his vote for city controller. He has heretofore asked that the box be brought in and that an entire count of the ballots for all offices be made.

The box has been ordered in for Thursday morning, and until the ballots are counted the return judges cannot compute their official totals.

Candidates File
Expense AccountsTomorrow Last Day And Only A Part Of Candidates Have Filed

Although tomorrow is the last day for filing expense accounts of candidates at the recent election, only a part of the candidates had filed their accounts at the prothonotary's office this morning. Most of the accounts filed showed expenses for advertising of various kinds, a few having employed "watchers" and persons to haul voters to the polls. Unless the account is over $50 no itemized account need be filed, but the candidate must make out a return certifying that his expense was not over $50.

Accounts of candidates who spent over $50, so far listed are as follows: Joseph Alexander, city council, $127.39; H. Martin Lee, for sheriff, $779.34; Harry M. Frank, district attorney, $279.95; Alex Black, register and recorder, $114.05; William S. Lewis, city controller, $92.25, and Frank S. Breneman, register and recorder, $466.14.

Sunday Sport Bill

Will Use Influence To Have Proposed Amendment Repealed—For Local Option

At their meeting last evening, members of the Sunday School Board, of the Croton M. E. church, took a definite stand in favor of creating public opinion against the licensing of liquor sale in Lawrence county, as provided for on the ballot.

They also voted to use their influence against the proposed amendment providing for the sanction of Sunday sports. Both of these issues were deemed detrimental to the best interests of the church and Sunday School, and the action was taken for this reason.

The next meeting of the board will be in the nature of a tureen dinner on the fourth Monday of the month.

Building Campaign Of Knights Progresses

Break Ground Today For Basement Of Knights Of St. Vitus Club House

Campaign for funds with which the new club house of the Knights of St. Vitus is to be financed got under way in a very effective manner at the meeting of the organization held last evening in its parish headquarters. The members of the club will furnish both money and labor for the work of constructing a fine new basement for the former convent of the parish and moving the building to the new location and remodeling it in accordance with the needs of the organization.

As a result of the success of the building fund campaign, ground for the basement was broken this morning and the work of making the improvement will be rushed to completion.

Under the plans made for the new home of the club, there will be a large basement, finished in the finest manner possible and 12 feet longer than the building to be moved to it.

The basement will include a hall 22 by 40 feet to be used as a meeting place by the club, in addition to the part to be used for the heating plant, coal cellar and other necessary purposes.

There will be no extension of the building itself over the 12 additional feet of the basement at this time but it will be covered and made weather proof.

The third floor of the building will be completely remodelled, a large lounge or reception room being made out of the greater part of the floor. There will be no changes in the second floor at this time.

Sukkoth Holy Day At Temple Israel

Feast Of Tabernacles Will Be Celebrated By Jews Beginning Thursday

Temple Israel, Highland and Moody avenues, will usher in the Feast of Tabernacles (Sukkoth) with a special service on Wednesday evening, October 4, at 8 p. m., Rabbi Avery Jonah Grossfield officiating.

The service will be rendered in the traditional Festival melodies, and the Esrog-and-Lulov will be blessed. The topic of the sermon will be: "Esrogim—Full and Shriveled."

The morning service will take place on Thursday at 10:30 o'clock. All the children and their parents as well as others are expected to be present.

After the Wednesday evening service, the members and friends will go down to the vestry rooms where a Sukkoth has been erected and decorated. The Rabbi will chant the Festival Kiddush, which will be followed by a reception tendered by the ladies of the Sisterhood.

All those ladies of the Temple Sisterhood who wish to take part in decorating the Sukkoth, are asked to bring flowers, fruits and vegetables to the Temple Vestry rooms Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock.

The Temple Israel Religious School will resume its sessions on Saturday morning, October 7, at 9:30 o'clock.

Sukkoth—The Feast Of Tabernacles

Beginning Thursday, October 5, 1933, the Jewish people all over the world will celebrate the Feast of Tabernacles, called in Hebrew, Sukkoth. Even in biblical days this holiday was among the important festivals of the Jewish calendar, and was classified with the Feast of Weeks and Passover. On these three joyous occasions the Jews of Palestine were required to make pilgrimages to the Temple of Jerusalem. The Feast of Tabernacles, however, is distinguished from its sister festivals in both its purpose and celebration.

In ancient days, when Israel dwelt in Palestine, Sukkoth was primarily an agricultural festival. It marked an occasion of thanksgiving for the fruit harvest, and it was indeed called "The Feast of Ingathering." The prime purpose of this festival was to express the feeling of the people toward nature at large. The people gathered in the Temple precincts, offered sacrifices of thanksgiving there, and participated in public feasts. Aside from these public rejoicings, there was instituted a highly elaborate ritual of paramount significance. On each of the seven days of this holiday a number of sacrifices were offered at the Temple to reconcile all nations of the world to God, while the sacrifices of the eighth day were for the Jewish people.

With the downfall of the Jewish State in Palestine and the destruction of the Temple in Jerusalem, the form of celebration of this festival was changed to suit the newer conditions; but the holiday itself assumed even greater importance.

Even today observant Jews build a Sukkah, or booth, in their yards; they eat their regular meals in these booths throughout the period of this holiday. The booths survive as a reminiscence of the time when the Jews dwelt in such booths during the forty years that they wandered through the desert, following their deliverance from Egyptian bondage. The palm branch, or lulab, as it is called in Hebrew; the ethrog, or citron; sprigs of the fragrant myrtle, and boughs of the humble willow of the brook symbolize the harvest character of the festival and form part of the Synagogue service for Sukkoth.

The observance of the festival in this country has changed to meet change conditions. The fruits of the field are brought into God's house as a sign of thankfulness and, after the service, are sent to the hospitals or the poor of the city. In many congregations the central feature of the observance now is the children's harvest service, a service of song and thanksgiving conducted by the children of the religious school.

It is the custom of the Synagogue to signalize the close of the holy days of the early autumn season by a festivity thoroughly characteristic of our religion known as "Simhath Torah," "the rejoicing in the Law." The last section of the Pentateuchal weekly lessons is read on this day, and is followed immediately by the reading of the first part of Genesis.
